COMMENT OF
THE DAY

Facts Tell The Truth

THE Chinese Communist propaganda campaign directed against Hongkong, initiated a few weeks ago by Peking Radio and given publicity in other parts of the world, has introduced a slightly new angle. Latest broadcasts and editorials from the mainland make innuendos concerning the squatter area fire at Tung Tau village last December, darkly hinting that the blaze was deliberately started in order to deprive thousands of Chinese of their homes and property. Fabrication of malicious lies and inferences is no new feature of propaganda emanating from State-dominated countries; Nazi Germany developed and perfected the technique which has since been adopted by the Communists wherever they are in control. The intention is to sow seeds of hatred in the minds of the people who are under the rule of the propagandists and to cause mistrust and apprehension in other parts of the world. Those in charge of the Chinese Communist propaganda machine know only too well there are in the West people suspicious of Hongkong's position and role in current Far East affairs and who can easily be persuaded that we are machivellian in motive and selfish in intention. Peking Radio propaganda is designed to play on these ignorant and susceptible minds, and only too unfortunately, the manoeuvre meets with a measure of success.

HONGKONG'S only method of countering slanderous propaganda is to let the rest of the world know the facts. No apologies are required. And the facts relating to the Tung Tau fire are sufficient to make ludicrous the imaginative lies which are being broadcast and published from the China mainland. It is well to recapitulate them: free meals served to 5,000 victims the day after the fire, the food being supplied and cooked by Government and distributed by the Kowloon City Kai-fong Welfare Association; 320,000 pieces of clothing distributed by the Kai-fong Association; $227,000 contributed to a relief fund, with the beneficiaries offered the alternative of cash or building materials to enable them to construct new dwellings; acceleration of a scheme to resettle the Colony's squatters, with priority given to the victims of the Tung Tau village fire. This is the Colony's answer to Peking's allegations of maltreatment and discrimination directed against the Chinese inhabitants. It is complete and requires no embroidery. But it needs to be made known to those who are gullible enough or biased enough to give credence to the false and hostile propaganda coming from Peking.

EARLY CORONATION

POSSIBLE Westminster Abbey Closing After Easter

London, Feb. 12.

Westminster Abbey will be closed soon after Easter, it was learned on Wednesday, to prepare it for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

It apparently indicated that the new queen would be crowned shortly after the official period of court mourning which ends on May 31. Easter is April 13.

High Church of England sources said the famous church will be closed for "some time" to permit installation of stalls for attendant peers and to make other necessary structural changes.

There is still no firm indication of the exact date chosen for the solemn and historic ceremony, but it is doubtful if England's most famous church would be kept closed for any considerable length of time.

Church sources said the keys to the Abbey will be handed to representatives of the Crown "very shortly" after Easter and the great edifice will be closed. The procedure follows from the peculiar position occupied by Westminster Abbey. The church is not subject to the jurisdiction of any Bishop, but, as one authority explained, "belongs" to the Crown.

Formally, such a church as Westminster Abbey, and St. George's Chapel in Windsor, where King George VI will be buried on Friday, are known as "Royal Peculiarities," meaning that they stand as evidence of the unbroken links between the Crown and the established Church of England.

Church sources pointed out that there was a tremendous amount of work to be done in the Abbey to prepare it for the coronation which is one of the most solemn ceremonies in the ritual of the Church of England.

If the coronation is held at the early date indicated by the anticipated closing of the Abbey, it will be the first time in more than 200 years that a British sovereign has been crowned in the year of his or her succession.

The unusually short period of court mourning ordered by Queen Elizabeth II for her late father had led to speculation that an early coronation was in sight.

One problem which must be solved before the ceremony is the position of the Duke of Edinburgh, husband of the queen, who will take at it. The last Queen of England, Victoria, who granted Albert precedence next after herself by special decree.

It was 17 years, however, before she made him take the title of Prince Consort. Elizabeth will also have to decide whether she will confer the title of Prince of Wales on Prince Charles, the heir apparent to the Throne.

The Prince, as the eldest son of the Sovereign, has inherited the title of Duke of Cornwall from his great uncle, the Duke of Windsor.

Princess Margaret, next of full age in the line of succession, would act as Regent if a Regency becomes necessary before Prince Charles was 21.

Modern-minded Queen Elizabeth is understood to favour the idea of the young Prince remaining in the family of Mountbatten, his father's family. She is the fourth Sovereign of the House of Windsor, the name adopted by King George V in 1917. Until then the Royal family belonged to the House of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, derived from Prince Albert, Consort of Victoria.

But in the first world war, against Germany, King George V decided by Proclamation against retaining the German name for his family, and so the House of Windsor began.

At the same time, Admiral of the Fleet, Lord of Battenberg, the great uncle of the Duke of Edinburgh, changed his name to Mountbatten.

Cyril Hanikson, Editor of Debut, Britain's standard reference work on the Royal Family and the Peerage, said today: "It is unlikely that the Queen will expect her son to carry on the Windsor name."

"Mountbatten is a very honourable name and there seems little doubt that Prince Charles will bear it."

MANY CHANGES
The Accession of the Queen, Britain's 40th sovereign since the Norman Conquest, is expected to be followed by many changes.

The position of the Duke of Edinburgh, who will naturally share the Queen's added responsibilities, will not alter officially. But it will be for the new Queen to decide whether she will follow the example of Queen Victoria, who granted Albert precedence next after herself by special decree.

It was 17 years, however, before she made him take the title of Prince Consort. Elizabeth will also have to decide whether she will confer the title of Prince of Wales on Prince Charles, the heir apparent to the Throne.

Army Of Mourners Converge On Westminster Hall

POIGNANT SCENE VIVIDLY DESCRIBED

London, Feb. 11.

A great army is on the move through the heart of London, creeping step by step towards Westminster Hall where King George lies in State.

These people come from all over Britain, from the Colonies and from countries in all parts of the world.

They speak in whispers in a dozen different languages.

But there is a camaraderie in this long, sad procession. A common aim binds them together—to pay their last respects to a dead King.

They arrive in the capital in trains, coaches and cars while some hitch-hike from the country in lorries.

Londoners come from their homes in the fashionable West End, from tiny houses in the suburbs and the poorer districts of the East End to join the hushed queue.

All of them face a five hours' small pace crawl before they pass before the purple island in Westminster Hall where their King rests.

For 10 minutes they gaze on the candle lit bier—then return to the world outside. 30,000 STRONG
The crowd, often 30,000 strong and stretching out for well over one and a half miles beside the grey River Thames, file along in ranks 10 deep.

A policeman holds up the traffic as the crowds cross the road.

A blind man taps unseeingly with his white stick for the kerb. An old woman takes his arm—"Let me help you over."

Two American airmen shuffle along with the crowd. Flown in from French Morocco yesterday they told the people around them, "We are only in England for a few days. We had to see your King. A long wait? Sure, but it's worth it."

A woman joins the tail end. She asks a policeman, "How long before we get to Westminster Hall?"

"Nearly five hours," he tells her.

She runs to the nearest telephone box. She had to cancel a plane reservation at London Airport.

"I must see the King before I go," she said to her neighbour.

War veterans hobbled along on sticks and crutches. Old women, some of them in their late 70s, were there, too.

Mothers held children in their arms, pushed babies in baby carriages.

But there is no pushing. SECOND PILGRIMAGE
Mr Clement Attlee, Leader of the Opposition, joined the pilgrimage today for the second time, walking past the bier with a party of friends in mourning dress, bowing deeply.

Clarence House also slipped quietly in through a side entrance.

By early tonight 123,320 people had already passed through the Hall and still the queue outside was well over 30,000 strong.

During the day prominent guests from abroad have been arriving in Britain to take part in the funeral.

ROYALTY ARRIVES
King Gustav Adolf and Queen Louise of Sweden were received at London Airport by the Duke of Edinburgh, who later met Dr Ivan Ribar, President of the Yugoslav Republic, and Don Juan, Pretender to the Spanish throne, flew here to represent the Spanish Royal Family.

In the same plane came the Portuguese delegation headed by the Foreign Minister, Mr Paulo Cunha.

Pakistan's new High Commissioner to Britain, Mr M. A. H. Isphahani, arrived in London by the boat train from Southampton this afternoon.

Pakistan will be represented at the Royal funeral by Sir Mohammed Zafarullah Khan, Pakistan's Foreign Minister, and by Mr Isphahani.—Reuter.

WINDSOR KNEELS
Queen Mary, 84-year-old mother of the dead King, tonight took the Duke of Windsor, her eldest son, to see his brother's coffin.

Together they walked round the purple-draped catafalque in Westminster Hall, where thousands of Britons have paid public tribute to the King in two days of lying in state.

The dimly lit Hall, guarded by Army officers and Gentlemen-at-Arms, was cleared of ordinary pilgrims as the Dowager Queen and her son, with her daughter, Princess Royal, walked through.

The Duke knelt on one knee on entering and leaving the Hall.

Queen Mary and the Princess Royal stood motionless with their heads bowed for several minutes. The Royal visitors stayed by the bier for 10 minutes.

It was later learned that one stream of people were allowed in the Hall on the day of the catafalque opposite the Royal party.

After a few moments, Queen Mary told a police inspector to allow the queue to continue moving in the usual two files, and for a period the public were in the Hall at the same time as the Queen and the Duke.

Poet Laureate Writing Tribute
London, Feb. 13.
Poet Laureate John Masefield said today he is working on a poetic tribute to King George VI, and that an ode to the new Queen will come later.

Masefield, now 73, said "I like every other Englishman wish to say what I can in praise of a very great man."

Masefield has been Poet Laureate since 1930. He lives in Berghite, not far from Windsor where the King is to be buried Friday.—Associated Press.

Farouk's Premier

Egyptian Envoy Sees Eden

Critical Interview

London, Feb. 13.

Abdel Fattah Amr Pasha, Egyptian Ambassador to Britain, called at the Foreign Office this evening for a critical interview with the British Foreign Secretary, Mr Anthony Eden.

He delivered a message from the Egyptian Prime Minister, Aly Maher Pasha.

According to a usually reliable source this indicated that the Egyptian Government is now willing to resume contacts with the British Government with a view to settling the Anglo-Egyptian dispute if Britain has any proposals to make.

Amr Pasha was recalled to Cairo in the middle of the Anglo-Egyptian tension last December. Today's meeting with Mr Eden was his first since then.

A spokesman of the Egyptian Embassy said that Amr Pasha had returned to London as a member of the Egyptian funeral mission and not in his capacity as Ambassador. He added that no date had been fixed for Amr Pasha's return to Cairo.—Reuter.

CAIRO AUDIENCE
Cairo, Feb. 13.
King Farouk this afternoon gave an audience to the British Ambassador, Sir Ralph Stevenson, the Court Circular announced tonight.

The Ambassador was summoned by the King at Abdin Palace. The audience lasted 45 minutes.

Observers here believed that it was connected with the forthcoming attempts to resume Anglo-Egyptian negotiations.

At the same time these observers considered that the Egyptian Premier's decision to create a new territorial army formed by youths who want to see Egypt's national aspirations achieved may serve as a security measure.

The Premier said that since this Government has the same aims as the youths, it cannot oppose their efforts to serve the Fatherland.—Reuter.

PART EVACUATION
Cairo, Feb. 13.
British troops have partly evacuated the Arab district of Ismailia, it was reported here tonight.

This step was taken as a result of arrangements made last Saturday between the Commander of the British Forces in Egypt, General George Erskine and the Egyptian Governor of the Suez Canal Zone, to restore normal situation in Ismailia.

Some 100 British light tanks and military vehicles, accompanied by 200 officers and men, arrived today in the Canal zone from Cyprus.

The reinforcements were from Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire regiments. As troops and material were arriving 154 British service families embarked here for repatriation to Britain.—France-Press.

The Committee was also believed to have approved at a meeting here today a request for taxation of turf and football bettings.

It is to send a detailed referendum to Mr Butler.—Reuter.

Mountbatten For NATO Post Urged

Lisbon, Feb. 13.

British quarters are understood to be pressing today for the appointment of Admiral Mountbatten as Commander of the Atlantic Pact naval forces in the Mediterranean.

They felt that one Brylson should be considered for the top NATO naval position since United States Admiral Lyne MacCormick has been made Supreme Commander of the Atlantic area.

A second United States Admiral, Admiral Robert Carney, chief of the Southern European Allied Forces, would be overburdened in case of war if he has to head, as well, inland sea naval forces as he does now.

Observers said it was doubtful whether the question of the complicated Mediterranean Command set-up would be decided at the Council meeting opening here today.

The admission of Greece and Turkey to NATO would mean the extension of Admiral Carney's responsibilities eastward.—United Press.

TUC BUDGET DEMANDS

London, Feb. 13.

The Economic Committee of Britain's Trades Union Congress is to demand that bigger food subsidies and a six-penny increase in the standard rate of income tax—to 10 shillings in the Pound—be included in the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr Richard Butler's March 4 budget, usually reliable sources said here today.

The Committee was also believed to have approved at a meeting here today a request for taxation of turf and football bettings.

It is to send a detailed referendum to Mr Butler.—Reuter.

Order Of Funeral Procession

London, Feb. 13.

The Royal funeral procession in London on Friday will be headed by an officer of the War Office staff and the bands of the Royal Air Force and the Welch Guards.

Then will follow Colonial and Commonwealth troops, representatives of the Territorial Army and Infantry of the line, followed by the bands of the Irish and Coldstream Guards.

The Foot Guards will come next, then the Royal Engineers, the Royal Artillery and the Royal Armoured Corps, with the bands of the Royal Artillery and the Royal Marines, who will be followed by detachments of the Royal Marines and the Royal Navy.

Behind will come officers of foreign forces and of the Dominion, chaplains of the three Services and staff and top-ranking officers of the British forces.

Representatives of the Merchant Navy and Admirals of the Fleet will be followed by the Aides-de-Camp to His Late Majesty.

Then will come the Drum, Horse and State Trumpeters and the 1st Division of the Sovereign's Escort. They will be followed by the bands of the Scots Guards and massed pipers.

The Earl Marshal will immediately precede the gun carriage, which will be followed by the Sovereign's Stagger, the Queen in her carriage and then the Royal Dukes.

Members of foreign Royal Families are expected to number 30. In the procession will be the King's Flight, the Royal Air Force, the band of the Royal Engineers, the police band and detachments of the Fire Services and Civil Defence Corps.

At Paddington the massed bands of the Brigade of Guards and pipers of the 2nd Battalion, Scots Guards, will play.

At Windsor the procession will be led by an officer of the Headquarters Staff and a dismounted detachment of the Life Guards. Then will come representatives of officers of foreign and Dominion forces.—Reuter.

Members of the staff of Buckingham Palace and other members of the Yugoslav delegation to the funeral.

Dr Ribar is making the first State visit by any Yugoslav to Britain since the war.

King Paul of Greece was greeted by a Royal Salute from Dover Castle when he arrived in the cross-Channel steamer Invicta.

The American Secretary of State, Mr Dean Acheson, flew into London Airport in President Truman's aircraft. The Independence, to attend the funeral as the President's personal representative.

The Spanish Foreign Minister, Senor Alberto Martin Ariza, also came by air.

WONDER CURES STAY SECRET

London, Feb. 13.

Discoveries of immense importance to medicine are believed to have been made in Britain's secret warfare research laboratories.

But those who desire urgently to apply them to the everyday war against disease and ill-health are expressing concern because, for security reasons, the secrets are being withheld.

Immense progress is said to have been made in regard to tuberculosis.

It is stated that in seeking antitubercular which would control and kill the tuberculosis germ, experimenters have discovered cures which would enable doctors to control the disease.

Research of high value has also been carried out at Porton, the Government's research station on Salisbury Plain, into all virus diseases—including influenza and virus pneumonia.

Antidotes were sought in case such infections be spread by an enemy in war.

Discoveries made, which are believed to be of much importance, have not been given to the medical profession, and in consequence treatment of those suffering from such illness is retarded.

British claims to lead in work of this kind.

A pathologist said: "It is certain that there is information at Porton, which could benefit the entire world. It is contrary to 2,000-year-old medical tradition to hide such knowledge."

"Any information gained about a scourge like T.B. is vital to mankind. If we have discovered how to turn this slowly developing disease into one of rapid growth such knowledge is of the highest value."

"It is lamentable that we should be denied it."

Among war discoveries made at Porton were new and deadly nerve gases which could paralyze the largest city if sprayed from the air by four aircraft.

Fortunately an antidote to these gases has also been found. It is now stock-piled in Britain, America, and Scandinavia. — London Express Service.

GENERAL ANALYSES WAR IN AIR OVER KOREA

Korea, Feb. 13.

The United States Fifth Air Force lost twice as many planes as it shot down since the beginning of the Korean war but the losses are not high in comparison to what is being accomplished, Lieutenant-General Frank Everest, Commander of the Force, said today.

"Communist plane losses would have been greater if they had been using their planes as we have been," Lieut.-General Everest said in an interview.

"But the Communists have not been flying offensive missions over our territory as we have over theirs," he said. The Fifth Air Force lost 458 planes since the start of the war compared with 242 Communist planes definitely accounted for by the Fifth Air Force.

The only place where there is a basis for comparison between the Fifth Air Force and the Communist Air Force is in the results of air-to-air combat between the two and in that field their losses were more than four times greater than ours.

Fifth Air Force pilots shot down 186 MIG-15 fighters while losing 30 jets and four propeller-driven planes in air battles. Besides these definite "kills" the Fifth Air Force listed 35 MIG-15's as probably destroyed and 300 as damaged.

STAY AT HOME

"Instead of risking planes by attacking targets in South Korea the Communists have remained pretty much at home and near the Yalu River. Therefore, they have not accomplished with their Air Force anything comparable to the accomplishment of the Fifth Air Force."

Gen. Everest added that the Fifth Air Force had been meeting the Communists very successfully in the air while carrying out "Operation Strangle" against Red supplies and communications at the same time.

"The cost to the enemy in just the last six months has been enormous. Look at these figures: Rail cuts 16,000; troops killed 16,000; locomotives destroyed 200 and 240 more damaged. There have been 210 bridges knocked out and 775 more damaged. Twenty-five thousand vehicles have been destroyed and some 265 supply, ammunition and fuel dumps hit."

"Besides neutralising enemy air power in North Korea we have caused much damage to installations. Additionally, we have provided close support for United Nations ground troops."

"PRETTY SUCCESSFUL"

"In comparison to what we have accomplished we have lost little. Our losses are well within acceptable limits."

The Fifth Air Force was sending up more than 4,000 individual flights every week, he said.

"The Communists are not doing as well as we are. If they were I could guarantee losses would be a lot higher."

"If they don't use planes they won't lose them."

"We use our aircraft pretty successfully. The job of the Fifth Air Force is to make the Communists pay as high a rent as possible for staying in North Korea." — United Press.

WARNING ON NEW GUINEA

Sydney, Feb. 13.

The afternoon newspaper Sun said today in an editorial that from the former Commander of the Dutch Navy, Admiral Helfrich, Australia had received another warning of the danger that faced her if the control of New Guinea passed from Holland to any other nation except Australia.

"The Australian Government should make it clear beyond doubt and without wasting any time that if the Dutch move out of Dutch New Guinea, Australia must move in."

"Under the impact of an all-out assault by Communist forces the whole of South-East Asia might conceivably crumble within the next five years."

"Even today the Indonesian Government wages a desperate struggle with strong Communist elements within its own boundaries and if the Red wave comes any further south it is possible that Indonesia itself might become a Communist nation."

"In that event, Indonesian control of Dutch New Guinea would plant a Red front almost at Australia's back door."

"The Australian Government must take a firm stand at once before we wake up to find Communist forces established on our northern frontier." — United Press.

ACHESON-EDEN MEETING
ON GERMAN
REARMINGBonn Chancellor
May Participate
In London Talks

London, Feb. 13.

The U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, stressed the importance of an agreement on the European Army at the Lisbon North Atlantic Treaty conference when he met the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, here tonight, usually reliable sources said.

Mr. Acheson is said to have emphasised that the tension between France and Germany, which threatens to impede the setting up of the European defence community, must be straightened out in the forthcoming London talks on the German problem.

Both he and Mr. Eden intend to meet the German Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, during the week-end. A decision on whether Dr. Adenauer is to attend the Ministerial conference itself will be taken at the first session of the "Big Three" Western Foreign Ministers' talks next Saturday.

Dr. Adenauer is flying to London tomorrow to attend the Royal funeral on Friday. Sir Ivone Kikpatrick, British High Commissioner in Germany, who flew to London from Bonn today, will tomorrow, together with the French and American High Commissioners in Germany, Mr. J. J. McCloy and M. Francois-Poncet, who both flew to London today, be at work on the agenda for the conference of the "Big Three" Western Foreign Ministers, which opens on Saturday.

One of the main items on the agenda will be the delays in the conclusion of the system of contractual treaties which are to end the occupation regime in Western Germany.

Another major question facing the three Foreign Ministers is the list of conditions governing German membership of the European defence community, which affect security control and industrial independence voted in the West German Parliament last week.

The French Foreign Minister, M. Robert Schuman, who is arriving in London tomorrow, is also expected to have private contacts with Mr. Eden before the Foreign Ministers' conference opens.

Tomorrow Mr. Acheson is expected to discuss the prospects of the Lisbon meeting with Mr. McCloy and Mr. Averell Harriman, the head of the Mutual Security Programme, and President Truman's special representative in Europe, Mr. William Draper, who reached London from Paris this morning.—Reuter.

McCLOY'S REPORT

London, Feb. 13. The United States Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, arrived here today and immediately conferred with his top lieutenants in Europe on ways to end the bitter quarrel between France and Germany and thus save the European Army project.

After paying formal calls to the Royal residences as President Truman's official representative to the funeral of King George, Mr. Acheson was briefed on the increasingly serious dispute between France and Germany.

The United States High Commissioner, Mr. John McCloy, reported to Mr. Acheson on the upsurge of nationalism in Germany which threatens to upset the project to create a single European Army composed of units from France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux countries.

Mr. McCloy also arranged a meeting between Mr. Acheson and the German Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, who is arriving tomorrow as Bonn's official representative at the Royal funeral.

The United States Ambassador to France, Mr. David Bruce, reported on French reaction to German demands for more "equality" and the possibility that the French Parliament may impose as difficult conditions on the European Army plan as were attached by the German Bundestag.

According to informed sources, Mr. Bruce warned Mr. Acheson the French would take a very poor view of any meeting with Dr. Adenauer before the French Foreign Minister, M. Robert Schuman, has a chance to see Mr. Acheson.

Mr. Schuman was said to be worried lest the Chancellor may swing Mr. Acheson over to the German point of view before the United States, Britain and France agree on a common policy towards Germany. Mr. Schuman arrives on Friday.

The United States is well aware of these fears and has agreed to follow a French suggestion that Mr. Acheson, M.

Schuman and the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, begin a formal conference on Saturday without Dr. Adenauer. Mr. Acheson will probably see Dr. Adenauer on Sunday and the Chancellor is expected to join the tripartite session at its final meeting on Monday.

Mr. Acheson also heard Mr. W. Averell Harriman, U.S. Mutual Security Administrator, and Mr. William Draper, Jr., on what individual members of NATO are prepared to contribute to defence this year.—United Press.

Extension Of Agreement
On Sterling

New Delhi, Feb. 13. Britain has agreed to extend her Sterling balances agreement with India for six years, it was disclosed in Parliament here today.

By 1957 India, which had Sterling balances of £1,137 million when she attained independence in 1947, will have only £50 million left in her blocked account—and that will be automatically transferred to the free account.

Details of the extension of the agreement were contained in the text of correspondence exchanged last week with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Richard Butler, and laid before Parliament today by the Indian Finance Minister, Sir Chintaman Deshmukh.

The letters embodied agreements entered into between Britain and India in December, 1950, and October, 1951. They were expected by observers to set at rest some fears that new restrictions might be put on the availability of Sterling balances to India.—Reuter.

Statement
By Rangoon
On Border
Situation

Rangoon, Feb. 13.

A spokesman for the Government of Burma today denied a London report of a proposed United Nations Commission on the presence of Chinese Nationalist troops in Burma.

The report stated that Britain's Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, had proposed the advisability of having this Commission.

"No such proposal, formal or otherwise, has been received by this Government up to this afternoon," the spokesman added.

On February 5 Mr. Eden told Parliament that Burma was having difficulty in disarming Chinese Nationalist troops driven inside its borders from China. He suggested that a commission could be formed to learn the exact facts.

Meanwhile, the Government of Burma has formed a local Commission to enquire into serious depredations by Chinese Nationalist troops in the Kengtung State bordering Thailand.

This is reported by well-informed sources who say that the Commission is headed by the ruler of Hsenwi State, near Lashio.

He is the Government's chief political officer for the Shan States bordering China. Members of Parliament from Kengtung State are also serving on the Commission.—Reuter.

STALIN MESSAGE TO MAO

London, Feb. 13. Moscow Radio reported tonight that Marshal Stalin had addressed a telegram to Mao Tse-tung, congratulating him on the occasion of the second anniversary of the Sino-Soviet Pact and extending best wishes for a further strengthening of co-operation between the two nations in the interests of peace throughout the world.—Reuter.

AMERICAN
TO DANES

Washington, Feb. 13.

President Truman, citing reports of the US Ambassador, Mrs. Eugene Anderson, said today that the defensive power and morale of the Danish people improved steadily in 1951.

The remarks were contained in the fourth semi-annual report to the Congress on the mutual defence assistance programme. "Denmark's morale and its defence organisation and its solidarity with NATO countries, which have steadily improved in the past year, were definitely strengthened by new measures undertaken in the last six months," Mrs. Anderson was quoted by President Truman.

"Viewed in the light of traditional Danish neutrality and taking into account the effect of this policy on the size of immediate post-war armed forces and on the institutional framework of the Danish State, the recent Danish defence effort has shown remarkable and steady progress."

President Truman himself observed, "The mutual defence assistance programme resulted in slow but continuing improvement in the morale of the armed forces and civilian population. The receipt of military equipment contributed importantly to morale."—United Press.

Economic experts foresee that the main result of the new Government policy will be a steady rise of prices which will be followed by certain unemployment and possible stabilisation later on.

The new rates for the Israeli pound were $2.80 for essential imports, $1.40 for charitable contributions, tourists and imports such as meat, fish and medicines, and $1 for investors.

Mr. Ben-Gurion said that there would be drastic cuts in the Administration by the dismissal of at least 1,000 Government employees while the collection of income tax would be made more efficient.

Death Of Colonel

Holyhead, Feb. 13.

Captain the Hon. O. H. Stanley, DSO, late of the Royal Horse Artillery, died at Holyhead, Anglesey, aged 72. Two sons of Colonel Stanley were killed when a 20-foot high sand cliff fell and buried them in December, 1947.—Reuter.

Criticism Of Israel By The Vatican

Vatican City, Feb. 13.

The Vatican Congregation for the Oriental Church has criticised the Israeli Government for destroying the village of Iktit, near Nazareth, whose 500 Catholic inhabitants were forcibly evacuated three years ago.

The Congregation's bulletin praised the Israeli High Court for ruling that the villagers should be allowed to return home.

The Israeli military authorities, the Congregation said, replied by razing the village last Christmas Day. Soldiers blew up the Catholic school and the parish church and even the church appears to be in ruins," the bulletin declared.

"Granted even that it was deemed necessary to neutralise the frontier village of Iktit for military reasons, the authorities first of all should have provided suitable accommodation for the inhabitants, and then, at any rate, respected the church and the houses."—Reuter.

SIGHT RESTORED TO WOMAN OF 66

By GWYN LEWIS

FOR 20 years Mrs. Quinell, of Snodun Road, Didcot, has been blind. She is also stone deaf.

Now, at the age of 66, by one of the corneal grafting operations for which the Queen-Victoria Hospital at East Grinstead has become renowned, the sight of one of her eyes has been restored.

THE MIRACLE

"WE held a family reunion to celebrate the miracle," said her husband to me, "and at that reunion our three children, Lilian, aged 42, Frederick, 40, and Albert, 35, decided as a mark of gratitude to sign documents bequeathing their own eyes to the hospital on their death."

"I would most gladly have given my own eyes as well, but the surgeon told me that they were not suitable. So, instead, I am devoting myself to the campaign to enrol other eye-donors."

Mrs. Quinell's deafness made the operation difficulties facing the eye surgeon unusual.

Her husband, who had mastered the deaf and dumb sign language in order to converse with her, conveyed to her the surgeon's instructions by signals tapped on her hand with his fingers.

He remained at the hospital for six weeks to do this.

MOST SUCCESSFUL

MRS. Quinell's advanced age also presented difficulties. But a week after the operation the surgeon was able to tell her that it was the most successful corneal-grafting operation he had ever done.

It restored good sight to her left eye. The other eye is beyond treatment.

Back home, Mrs. Quinell smiled at me over her busy knitting needles and said: "I had to put these aside 20 years ago. Now I can see from my window the birds and the flowers in our garden."

"Best of all, I can see the dear face of my husband who has been so patient, so good to me through all these years of darkness."

"I can also see that many people I had pictured as ugly are not so ugly after all, and that others are uglier than I thought."

"SHOCK" FOR HER

MRS. Quinell, since her sight was restored, has spent many hours gazing entranced at shop windows. She said: "And didn't the price tickets give me a shock!"

As the law stands in Britain today bequest of their eyes by the Quinell family is of little use to surgeons, because eyes may not be removed until 48 hours after death.

Unless the cornea—the transparent portion of the front of the eye covering the eyeball—is removed within two hours of death it begins to cloud.

France has passed a law to overcome this difficulty, and Mr. J. Crookshank, Minister of Health, has stated that he is considering proposals to amend British law.

The Queen Victoria Hospital, which does more of these operations than any other hospital in Britain, has a waiting list of more than 200, all waiting for corneas to become available.

But, under present restrictions, the supply of suitable ones is limited and irregular.

Recently, a crowded town's meeting held at East Grinstead and addressed by Mr. B. W. Rycroft, the eye surgeon, and Sir Archibald McIndoe, the plastic surgeon, decided to start a movement in the town to stimulate and organise the bequeathing of the corneas of eyes after death.

It was explained that it is not necessary to remove the whole of the eye, but merely the front covering, and that its removal does not cause any disfigurement.

He remained at the hospital for six weeks to do this.

MISTAKES WE'LL MOST REGRET BY 1960

THE biggest and gravest of all our postwar blunders is that we have never matched the common front in Europe with a common front in the East or North Africa.

We have not even elaborated a common plan. Instead, there is a most alarming conflict.

Four months ago I sent a warning despatch from Tunis. It told of the activities in America of one Habib Bourguiba.

This boss of the Tunisian nationalists was stumping from coast to coast with speeches denouncing America's ally France as a "slaver and oppressor."

I confess, however, that I did not at the time anticipate that the Bourguiba campaign would have been sufficiently strong to influence the statements of a high official like Dean Acheson.

He, after all, is the head of the U.S. State Department, a man of considerable courage and integrity and American planner-in-chief of Western defence policy against Stalin.

Here are a few quotes from a recent public declaration by Acheson:—

• "THE FERMENT at work in Egypt and Tunisia is nothing less than the contagious ideas of liberty, justice and independence expressed in the French and American revolutions just a century and a half back."

• "THE WEST must not allow itself to become identified with the obstacles to change in the face of the oncoming and irrepressible dynamic forces in these areas."

If it does so ".... we shall intensify the conflict and alienate the peoples of these countries from our side."

• "OUR LONG-TERM interests are best served if peoples' aspirations for representative and responsible government are fulfilled in a peaceful and ordinary fashion."

Everywhere the cause of Communism has flourished. For Communism outside the Soviet Union and its satellites has espoused the cause of nationalism and made it its own.

In India, British withdrawal was followed by murderous anarchy in which Hindus and Moslems attempted to exterminate each other.

In China the treaty rights of the British were abolished.

The anti-British Chiang Kai-shek took over. The Americans themselves were appalled at the orgy of corrupt maladministration which followed.

As that regime disintegrated, China fell under the rule of the only Power determined to rule firmly.

The Communists took over and embarked on a campaign of expansion into the rest of South-east Asia.

They attacked Korea. Suddenly the Americans found themselves burdened with the same responsibilities previously shouldered by the British, the Dutch, and the French.

In Burma, too, we got out. What happened? Anarchy took over. Even today only a third of the country owes allegiance to the Rangoon Government.

Much the same happened in Indonesia after the Dutch were made to leave by the United Nations Commission.

But that a man of such standing can make a statement so muddled and so damaging to the interests of America's allies, and therefore to America herself is a product of this blundering conflict between the American attitude to nationalist movements and our own.

If this conflict is allowed to continue it will so weaken the Western side that Stalin will be in a position to accomplish his plans without a war.

Truth wanted

GREAT as the damage is already it is still not too late for the Dutch, the French and ourselves to make a concerted effort in America. We must bring home the truth to our American allies.

It must be pointed out to them that no real alliance is possible where one partner insists on liquidating the interests of the other, weakening him in such a way that he is unable to do his share in opposing the common enemy.

The record of the first years after the war makes it abundantly clear that appeasement of the ambitious nationalist politics, far from pacifying Asia and creating stability and peace, in fact created chaos, war and anarchy.

It must be put to them at once. By 1960 I want to be able to look back on this gravest of all postwar blunders as one which was put right in 1952.

Salesmen Still Needed To Get The Dollars

New York, Tuesday.

IF Britain is engaged in a dollar drive here I haven't seen it.

There is perhaps a lethargic dollar "crawl" meandering along; but that won't reap the American currency.

When the pound sterling was devalued over two years ago there were stirrings and signs of life. British goods were advertised in full-page spreads in the newspapers. New York, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco stores had "Buy British" weeks and our goods sold swiftly across the shop counters.

That first fine rapture did not last. The impetus went out of the campaign. Today I see BOAC advertising regularly, the British Travel Association featuring fairly prominently, and British hotels extending a discreet welcome.

No all-out effort

THERE is no all-out inspired effort by British business to garner the dollars. Whose fault is it? The Board of Trade or British business men?

We cannot blame the American customer. He is ready, eager, and willing to buy if the goods are priced right, the quality high, and delivery on schedule.

Often the goods are not priced right, the quality is not high, and the delivery is behind schedule.

I have a dreadful feeling that we are earning fewer dollars in the United States by the sales of our products than before devaluation.

All I can get from British officials here is mumble-jumbo, not hard facts, but I do know that the delivery of some British goods to American customers has lagged so far behind promises that many orders have been cancelled and placed elsewhere.

I am provoked to put this spur into British business by American reaction to Mr. Butler's new austerity programme. The Americans say to me: "Why don't your people go out and sell? Where are the travelling salesmen? What have you got to offer?"

I have mumbled "Motor-cars" and the Americans have said: "Right. Wonderful cars, beautifully finished, but no self-changing gears on the stock models, no electrically operated canvas top on the convertibles, no push-button windows, not enough room, and not enough chromium trim."

I have mumbled — "Woolon goods" and the Americans have said: "Lovely stuff, but 25 dollars (about £9) is too much for the softest woolen sweater when you can buy a nylon sweater, really

new, puts away £10 a year

and there never were so many Americans."

A hundred and forty-four pounds of meat a year—your own weight in meat, eh? How do you like that?

Perhaps Mr. Churchill should have said: "I have not come for gold, but for meat."

You must not imagine that everything is perfect in this meat-choked paradise. New York is particularly plagued at the moment, and I don't mean merely by strikes. The post service is breaking down.

The service has always been vastly inferior to Britain's G.P.O. fewer deliveries, slower collections and snail-gait now it is having difficulty in functioning at all. It often takes three or four days for a letter posted at one end of New York State to be delivered at the other end.

The unfortunate postmen are overworked, overladen, and underpaid. Now they just dump my letters in bundles outside the office after the Post Office requested that such concession be made in writing.

I wrote: "Gentlemen—This letter will serve as permission to the letter-carriers to place our morning mail outside the doors of our office when they are locked. It is understood, of course, that the mailman will leave the mail tied in neat parcels as has been done in the past."

The entertainment world was indignant that Britain's Graham Greene should have been denied a visa to come to the United States. This isn't security—it's inner insecurity. Americans can go to Britain without any visa whatsoever. Some partnership!

Deanna Durbin, the Canadian-born girl whose parents came from Blackpool, will try a comeback in "The Vagabond King" with Mario Lanza.

Pen before stage

EMILYN WILLIAMS is adding new lustre to British prestige on Broadway with his Charles Dickens readings. He says: "Charles Dickens always wanted to be a great actor. I want to be the same, but if I had to choose between acting and writing I'd choose to write."

Warner Brothers want Vivien Leigh for another film, but Miss Leigh and Sir Laurence are missing London.

FOOTNOTE: Britain's best way of garnering the dollars is delivering the goods.

DON IDDON'S DIARY

washed, non-shrinkable, for four dollars.

I have murmured "Fine leather goods and silversware" and I have been told: "Yeah, a fine price—too expensive."

At this point there is nothing to say but "Scotch whisky," which we certainly can and do sell, but the sad thing is that Britain gets only about five shillings on each bottle and a bottle of Scotch here costs £2 10s. and up.

Finally, there is the tourist trade, said to be one of our biggest dollar-earners. Sir Alexander Maxwell, it could be a lot bigger.

The wrong type

WE keep sending productivity teams over here. Have we ever sent a group to study the American market and its special needs? Are we really trying to give the American tourist what he wants in Britain?

And if and when we do send over our dollar-seeking representatives, send the right types. No stuffed shirts, no forced accents, no condescending "The whole sales talk is Americans is trouble with you Americans is here—no restraint, no culture."

That is not the way to sell, or didn't anyone tell some of our commercial travellers?

All sorts of theories are held here regarding Britain's economic troubles, but the one that appeals to me most is Dr. Frank Kingdon's.

Dr. Kingdon, just back from Britain, is a writer and a broadcaster and he says a way must be found to get meat to the British. "Meat" may not seem a timely issue in this day of big headlines, yet if the United States and the Dominions could work out some plan for getting more meat to England, its enthusiasm and value as an ally would jump overnight.

More meat for the British, says the doctor, and I think he has diagnosed the patient correctly. Surely there is some to spare from here.

Choice is meat

I SEE an advertisement entitled "Quicker Way to Bring Home the Bacon," by the General Mills firm here, which says: "You may eat your own weight in meat in the next 12 months. The average American, enjoying higher living standards, buys a nylon sweater, really

new, puts away £10 a year

and there never were so many Americans."

A hundred and forty-four pounds of meat a year—your own weight in meat, eh? How do you like that?

Perhaps Mr. Churchill should have said: "I have not come for gold, but for meat."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Ran Out of Trumps. And Lost Control

By OSWALD JACOBY

"WHAT is meant by control of a bridge hand? Control is difficult to define, but you always know what it is when you've just lost it. That usually happens when you run out of trumps, so that the opponents can take too many tricks in the side suits.

In today's hand, for example, South lost control of the play. It was a full-on hand. Just keep your eye on East and see how he waited for the right moment to strike the decisive blow.

West opened the king of diamonds, and South ruffed with the six. South next led the eight of hearts towards dummy king, hoping to land in dummy for the club finesse. East let dummy win the trick. If he took the ace of hearts, East could return a diamond, but South would discard instead of ruffing. West would win with the ace of diamonds and return a spade. South would take the queen and ace of clubs and ruff with the king of dummy. East could then over-ruff dummy.

for the third defensive trick, but that would be South's.

When dummy won the second trick with the king of hearts, declarer took the club finesse, cashed the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club in dummy with the five of hearts. Once more East hid his time. He refused to over-ruff a spade.

If East makes the mistake of over-ruffing, South makes the contract. East returns a diamond, and South discards a club. The ace of diamonds and returns a spade. Dummy wins and returns the seven of hearts. East can take only the ace of hearts.

When East refused to over-ruff, declarer returned the seven of hearts from the dummy. This was the moment for which East had been waiting. He stepped up with the ace of hearts and ruffed dummy in by returning a spade.

Now declarer couldn't get out of dummy except by a spade or a diamond. This brought him down to one trump, while East still had two trumps. Then then discovered that he had lost control of the hand. No matter how he wriggled and squirmed he could win only nine tricks.

Owing to the death of His Majesty The King the Committee of the St. David's Society of Hong Kong wish to inform members that the Annual Dinner, which was to have been held in the Roof Garden of the Hong Kong Hotel on 1st March 1952, will not now take place.

R. G. COLMAN,

Hon. Secretary.

St. David's Society of Hong Kong.

NOTICE

A. S. WATSON & COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOTICE is hereby given that the 33rd Ordinary Yearly Meeting of the Company (since registration) will be held at the Hong Kong Hotel, Hong Kong, on Friday the 22nd February, 1952, at 11.15 a.m., for the purpose of receiving the Report of the Directors together with the Statement of Accounts for the period ended 31st October, 1951, and to elect Directors and appoint auditors.

At 11.30 a.m. of the same day at the same place, an Extraordinary General Meeting of the Company will be held for the purpose of considering two resolutions fully set out in the Notices convening this Meeting which have been sent to individual shareholders. The first resolution provides for the termination of the Agreement between the Company and Messrs. John D. Humphreys & Son and for the compensation of Messrs. John D. Humphreys & Son Ltd., the successors in business of the said Messrs. John D. Humphreys & Son.

The resolution also provides for the offer to members of 50,000 shares in the Company at $20.00 per share in order to raise part of the compensation payable to the said General Managers in consequence of the termination of the said Agreement. In the event of this resolution being carried, a further resolution will be proposed as a special resolution. This provides for consequential amendments to the Articles of Association of the Company arising from the termination of the Agreement with the General Managers and for the transfer of the powers formerly exercised by the General Managers to the Board of Directors of the Company. Any shareholder who has not received the Notice setting out these resolutions in full and the accompanying Statement from the Chairman of the Board of Directors may obtain copies on application to the Secretary of the Company.

The Transfer Books of the Company will be closed from Monday, 11th February, 1952, to Friday, 22nd February, 1952, both days inclusive.

By Order of the Board,
WM. PATERSON.
Secretary.

Hong Kong, 1st February, 1952.

Truth About Armaments Is Sought

New York, Feb. 13.
The United States will place before the United Nations Disarmament Commission specific proposals calling for foolproof safeguards that everyone will be telling the truth about armaments, a top American diplomat disclosed today.

Mr. Ernest Gross, acting chief of the United States delegation to the United Nations, said the 12-nation Disarmament Commission created by the General Assembly in Paris also would have to examine the newest Soviet disarmament proposals as to the "intent and sawdust content."

He made the comments after arriving from Paris aboard the liner Liberte with several members of the American delegation.

The Disarmament Commission is expected to convene here some time next month.

Mr. Gross, who hailed the creation of the Commission as one of the two important accomplishments of the Paris session, said: "The United States has specific proposals on the disclosure of armaments."

He said the other important achievement of the Assembly was the universal support given the United States in opposition to Soviet demands that the Korean truce talks be transferred to the United Nations.

"It showed the confidence of the United Nations in the United Command," he said.—United Press.

Prison For Embezzler

For embezzling and fraudulently converting $6,019.36 between February and October last year, Lum Wing-yuk, 30-year-old accountant employed by the Yick Sang Yuen Import and Export firm, 105 Jervois Street, ground floor, was sentenced to six months by Mr. Poon Yeh Yeh at Central Prison today.

It was disclosed by the Prosecution that all the money had been lost in gold speculation and could not be recovered.

Det. Sub-Inspector R.A. Patterson told the court that on February 3 last year, defendant was entrusted by his firm with $1,502 to deliver to the King Wo firm of 97, Des Voeux Road West, second floor.

However, he fraudulently converted the money to his own use.

On April 5, last year, he fraudulently embezzled $4,257.36 which he received on behalf of his employer; and on September 28, the same year, he embezzled another $800.

The Prosecution also told the court that defendant had been given an opportunity since last October to make restitution but failed to do so.

Defendant pleaded for leniency saying that he had a family and children to support.

Lyttelton On Radio Tonight

An important alteration has had to be made in tonight's programmes from Radio Hongkong.

At 9.45 the RT Hon. Oliver Lyttelton will broadcast from London on the death of King George VI and the accession of Queen Elizabeth II.

As a result a Winifred Pickles feature originally timed for 9.15, will come on the air at 9 o'clock.

FISHERMAN LOSES BOTH HIS HANDS

A 38-year-old fisherman Yuen Yuk-ting who appeared in Kowloon this morning with no hands and only one eye was cautioned and discharged by Mr. Oswald V. Cheung for fishing with dynamite in Sai Kung.

Inspector H. B. Dewar said the defendant used dynamite to fish in Sai Kung on December 28, last year and a stick of dynamite accidentally exploded. Defendant was admitted to Kowloon Hospital and had been detained there since.

FAILED TO RENEW LICENCE

Fung Kam-huk, 37, master of fishing sampan 3570X, was fined $20 by Mr. W. Sprague at the Marine Court this morning for failing to renew his licence.

A charge of illegally fitting an outboard motor to his craft was withdrawn as no conditions were stipulated in the licence.

S. Marwaha (23) from Punjab, a postgraduate student at the London Homeopathic Hospital, gather round the Chess Board in a battle of wits.—London Express.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sympathy For A Critic

Sir—Sue Dawson has my sympathy. A critic—even a lady—possesses a neck that does stick out and which, sooner or later, must catch a bag of mail from individuals with susceptible butts.

But I do feel that, in the case of her preview of "I Want You," she has been misread or misunderstood. God knows that Hollywood has won the last war for the United States—to the exclusion of all other Allies—for a long and extremely nauseating length of time. And when she does find a Hollywood production that tears itself away from this self-admiration, then she is (and I don't blame her) flabbergasted to a high degree. So much so that she kicks off her review with a sentence which clearly expresses her pleasure at the fact that, for once, the Hollywood moguls have found some other kind of story for actors in uniform. For which heaven be praised!

If there was any bad taste in the past, then it came from Hollywood. The Allies fought as a team and as a team they won the war. But Hollywood did ignore that fact—and ignore it blatantly through a series of war films in which America and Americans welcomed the Japanese and Germans in much the same style as the old cowboys always did the Indians well and truly in the eye in the old days. If there were any other countries in the war, then Hollywood—I stress the word "Hollywood"—chose to forget that fact.

And the blame lies on Hollywood—not on the Americans as a nation. "The True Glory" is only one instance of the real America acknowledging the teamwork that carried armies through to victory. And I fancy that if Washington had its way, there would be less flag-waving in the spate of war films that Hollywood has launched, or is about to thrust, on a long-suffering world.

As far as Britain is concerned, she has only herself to blame. She let Hollywood become the world's film capital. J. Arthur Rank failed to "win" any wars for his country alone and always gave a share to someone else. And he let all his best stars be dazzled by dollars and wear American uniforms to "triumph" for Uncle Sam in Burma, the Western Desert and other places where shots were fired in anger in the last war.

Anyway, Sue Dawson has to see this sort of film. I don't. That's some sort of reward I get for not being a critic.

THE BATTLE OF THE BILGE.

Carried Opium In A Tin

A fine of $900 or three months was imposed on Chan Sit, 36, shop fold, by Mr. Oswald V. Cheung at Kowloon this morning for possession of 92 tins of prepared opium.

The defendant was stopped by the Police in Kowloon City near the Hau Wong Temple yesterday afternoon and the opium was found in a tin he was carrying.

Inspector Dewar said that the amount of opium seized was enough for 900 full pipes.

The drug was ordered to be confiscated for destruction.

Appeal Judge Charge Was NO OFFENCE SHOWN

Holding that clearly the charge was bad, Mr Justice Gould at the Appeal Court this morning allowed an appeal brought by Yip Kwok-sing against conviction for possession of implements of house-breaking. His appeal against conviction on a charge of being found in Edinburgh House at night with intent to commit a felony was not upheld.

On both charges the appellant had been sentenced by a Magistrate to a total of 18 months.

In allowing the appeal on the first count, his Lordship substituted the sentence of 18 months to twelve months on the second charge on which he said there was ample evidence to support it.

Yip, when asked for his grounds for saying he was wrongly convicted, said that he had nothing whatsoever to do with the instruments found in the place where he lived. He lived on the premises because he was in financial difficulties.

Reading over the depositions, his Lordship said that the charge of possession was clearly bad. The charge had disclosed no offence and the appellant was not found in actual possession of the tools. Citing an authority, his Lordship said that possession must be physical in the particular section under which Yip was charged.

Mr W. A. Blair-Kerr, Crown Counsel, together with Mr Patrick Yu, Crown Counsel, represented the Crown.

ANOTHER APPEAL
Hung Kwai-yau, a Shanghai man, appealed against conviction for assault for which he was given twelve months by a Kowloon Magistrate.

Hung told his Lordship that he would have been aggrieved had the complainant not been dealt with. Appellant said that it was the complainant who started the fight and caused him a head wound.

"Appellant said that he had been warned by the Tsun Wan Police and he was quite satisfied with the warning but to his amazement the complainant locked out a private prosecution against him and accused him of having started the fight."

"In view of my employment in a milling factory, I ask your Lordship to reduce the sentence," said Hung.

His Lordship: There is evidence that you used a sharp-edged file.

Appellant: It was part of the apparatus I use in my work. I use the instrument only in resistance.

His Lordship remarked that the appellant had applied for two witnesses to be called. These should have been called at the trial, his Lordship added.

PANIC-STROCKEN
When asked why he did not call the witnesses at the Magistrate's, the appellant replied, "I was in such a panic-stricken state that my thoughts failed to function."

Mr Blair-Kerr, replying to his Lordship, said that morally in private prosecutions, the Police regarded the matter as trivial. From past experience, said Crown Counsel, he felt that if the Police regarded a matter as serious they would take action themselves. "Sentence of twelve months in the case does seem to be severe," he added.

His Lordship remarked that he would deal with the case as an appeal against sentence and allowed the appellant to call a witness.

Ting Ka-chun, a fellow-worker, testified that he did not see the actual fight in the dormitory in July last year but he did see the complainant and the appellant were injured.

Reducing the sentence to six months from date of conviction, his Lordship said that he accepted the evidence that the appellant was wounded and therefore the fight might have been on more even terms than at first appeared. But his Lordship saw no reason to differ from the Magistrate's obvious opinion that the appellant was the aggressor in the assault. In view of the evidence he had heard this morning he would reduce the sentence accordingly.

DISMISSED
Two appeals against severity of sentence and one against conviction were dismissed by Mr Justice Gould.

The Hung, convicted of larceny from the person and sentenced to 18 months said he did not commit the offence intentionally. He was involved by someone.

Appellant admitted four previous convictions. He asked his sentence to be reduced because he had an old father.

Finds Bad Soldier Faces Grave Charge

Antony Roy Phillips, 19, of the 23 Field Regiment Quarry Camp, New Territories, was charged before Mr Oswald V. Cheung at Kowloon this morning with rape.

At the request of Divisional Det. Insp. P. Moor, Phillips was remanded a week for further enquiries.

It was alleged that Phillips had carnal knowledge of a Chinese woman Hung Pui-wah, 26, at a place of vacant ground in Dzan Kwai Cheun Village, New Territories, without her consent on February 9.

DANGEROUS OFFENCE

Man Heavily Fined

A fine of $2,200, or nine months was imposed by Mr Oswald V. Cheung at Kowloon this morning on a 28-year-old unemployed Ip Kwan for distilling liquor without a licence, possession of 80 gallons of fermenting material and three gallons of distillable liquor at Li Uk Village, Shamshuipo.

In passing sentence, Mr Cheung said: "I take a very serious view in this case. This sort of still is liable to explode any time and set fire to the house nearby, secondly you also cheated the Government of duty."

"I have had one fatal accident before me some time ago and this kind of practice must be stopped."

Revenue Insp. Millington said the defendant was arrested yesterday and the fermenting material seized could produce 15 gallons of liquor.

He also pointed out that the maximum penalty for this offence is $10,000 or one year.

MAN DIES AFTER BEING RESCUED

A 40-year-old man, Ma Kai-man, died on the way to hospital early this morning after he had been rescued from the sea at Kennedy Town.

Ma was swimming from the Chung Shing Benevolent Society's bathing pavilion at 7.45 a.m. when he got into difficulties.

A beach attendant went to his help and succeeded in bringing him ashore for first aid.
